

GENERAL HOSPITAL WILL BE IMPROVED

Director Furbush Announces Plans After Inspection—Staff and Nurses Praised

ISSUES HYGIENE BULLETIN

After devoting nearly all of yesterday to an inspection of the Philadelphia General Hospital, Dr. C. Lincoln Furbush, director of the Department of Health, said he would exert every effort to make the hospital a well-organized institution with an efficient administration.

He declared the hospital should become an institution that would reflect credit upon the city, and added that the City Council would be asked to provide money for this purpose.

Changes in the operation of the institution must be made, he said. Antiquated systems must go and a high class of attendants must be obtained. He praised the medical staff and the force of nurses.

Sanitation Important

Dr. Furbush emphasized the necessity of instructing the foreign-born residents of Philadelphia in the importance of sanitation and the danger of disease breeding by too close contact in crowded tenements in a weekly bulletin of the Department of Health issued Saturday.

Dr. Furbush's statement on sanitation and hygiene follows:

"It is generally agreed by public health officials and expert sanitarians that a large proportion of the avoidable diseases may be attributed to ignorance on the part of the individual. In a large city of this kind with a foreign-born population of 40,000, the problem of educating and Americanizing our new residents is partly a function of the Health Department.

"The mode of living of many of the emigrants, and their tendency to congregate in closely built up sections in congested quarters, are well known. With as little interference as possible with their traditional customs, they must be taught that these shall not transgress upon common-sense laws of hygiene and sanitation. As soon as they realize that our interest in their health will promote better living conditions, so soon will be able to reduce the prevalence of disease, sickness and poverty among them.

Cleanliness in Home

"Our first lesson in community sanitation deals with the cleanliness of the home. Every housekeeper must be her

ALIENS HERE NEED JOBS, SO SEEK NATURALIZATION

Two Hundred Foreigners Find It Pays to Be an American and Get Busy—Thirty Nationalities Represented

Aliens in Philadelphia are seeking naturalization in order to get good jobs. Russians are in the lead, representing 29 per cent of the industrious applicants to the State Employment Service of the Department of Labor and Industry, 1019 Arch street. Italians are second, with 18 per cent.

Most of the foreign job seekers find that it pays to be an American. Americans are given preference at the Employment Service, and so the aliens, it is said, usually endeavor to get citizenship papers and then return to the office for suitable work.

The Employment Service has been making a study of the foreign applicants, and finds that Russians are more numerous than other nationalities. From eighteen to fifty-one years of age, Russians who have been residing in America for from three to seventeen years have been taking out naturalization papers. Out of the first 200 applicants, after the study was started, fifty-nine were Russians.

Italians numbered thirty-six, from eighteen to sixty-three years of age. Austrians were third. There were seventeen Austrians, none of whom was more than thirty-three years of age.

In the 200 cases studied thirty nationalities were listed, including ten Mexicans, an Australian, a German, eleven from southeast Europe and several South Americans. Some of them have lived in this country more than forty years before taking the serious step of naturalization.

United States had appointed delegates to the league, but that nevertheless the Saar commission was appointed without reference to the United States.

FOOD IN STORAGE SHOWS BIG SLUMP

Surplus of All Meats and Poultry Reduced, State Report Shows

MORE EGGS AND BUTTER

There is a marked decrease in the amount of meat on hand as compared with former years, according to the report of James Faust, director of the bureau of foods of the State Department of Agriculture, which also shows that more than 1,000,000 dozens of eggs and 5,000,000 pounds of butter were sold by cold storage holders in Pennsylvania during the holidays.

There were more than 15,000,000 dozens of eggs in storage three months ago, but the latest report shows this number had decreased to 4,300,420 dozens. A year ago, however, the number was only 2,170,230 dozens. There were 612,500 pounds of eggs out of shell, a slight decrease over the record of a year ago. Three months ago there were 7,390,839 pounds of butter in storage, and a year ago 8,269,264 pounds, but on January 1 the cold-storage houses had only 2,002,142 pounds.

There have been 2,000,000 pounds of poultry added to the storage supply during the last quarter, there being now 3,113,137 pounds in the houses, as compared with 1,150,921 pounds on October 1. The present stored supply, however, is 1,000,000 pounds short of the supply of last year. There are also fewer pounds of fish in storage. Meats have shown marked decreases, too. At this time in 1919 there were 4,692,835 pounds of beef on hand, but on the first of this year the supply was only 2,610,967 pounds, as compared with 5,237,480 pounds in 1919. The comparative tables of stored food show:

Held for Drug Store Robbery

A man who said he was John Moore, of Cleveland, O., was arrested in Ardmore yesterday and accused of robbing the drug store of Dell N. Ross, of Bryn Mawr. Moore was arrested after selling several articles to Nathan Harrison, an Ardmore storekeeper. After Harrison bought a safety razor and a box of cigars from Moore, who said they were unwanted Christmas presents, he notified the police. They arrested Moore, who confessed, they say.

own health officer. She should make provisions in the home for the collection of refuse, ashes and garbage in proper receptacles, which should be placed on the sidewalk curbing on regular collecting days. Accumulation of filth in the home may breed vermin and produce favorable conditions for the spread of disease.

"The plumbing system of the home bears a direct relation to its sanitation. A plentiful water supply for cleaning and bathing purposes is absolutely essential. The drainage pipes must likewise be kept free from obstruction at all times. Leaking roofs and wet ceilings need prompt attention.

"It is only by intensive education that we hope to bring about better health conditions in the homes of the congested districts. Clean homes indicate a healthy community."

Thinking Millions

If you were a publisher with a magazine circulation of millions a month, how would you convey an idea to another man of the home empire formed by your readers?

Before you answer, read this gem from a lecture by William James.

"But can we think of such a sum? Can we realize for an instant what a cross-section of all existence at a definite point of time would be: While I talk the flies buzz, a sea gull catches a fish at the mouth of the Amazon, a tree falls in the Adirondack wilderness, a man sneezes in Germany, a horse dies in Tartary and twins are born in France."

How would you picture a composite of millions of magazine-reading homes?
